USA NorthAmerica 3630 Word Count: 726 A new head-to-head, peer-reviewed clinical trial demonstrated that Astelin Nasal Spray (azelastine HCl), marketed by MedPointe Pharmaceuticals, provided 25% greater reduction in nasal symptoms than Zyrtec (cetirizine HCl), marketed by Pfizer, Inc. The data, published in the May 2005 issue of Clinical Therapeutics, also showed that Astelin offered significantly greater improvements in allergy patients' quality of life, compared to Zyrtec. "Patients with chronic allergies are often frustrated with allergy medications that do not work as well as they had hoped ...

...improved their overall quality of life." The ACT I study (Azelastrine Cetirizine Trial) directly compared the efficacy of Astelin versus Zyrtec in patients with moderate-to-severe allergic rhinitis in order to determine which prescription antihistamine was more effective in improving nasal symptoms of seasonal allergic rhinitis. The ACT I study examined the efficacy of Astelin or Zyrtec against common allergy symptoms, including runny nose, sneezing, nasal itching and nasal congestion. These symptoms collectively were directly measured as ...

...taking either Astelin or Zyrtec; however, patients taking Astelin showed an overall greater improvement in TNSS compared to those taking Zyrtec. The average improvement in TNSS for Astelin was 5.56 (29.3%) compared with 4.32 (23.0%) with Zyrtec, which was significant (P = .015). In the assessment of onset of action over 4 hours, the TNSS was significantly improved from baseline in both treatment groups 15 minutes after initial administration (P < .001). The difference between Astelin and Zyrtec was significant at 60 and 240 minutes (both, P = .040). At no time point during the 4-hour observation period did the improvement in TNSS with Zyrtec exceed that with Astelin. Using the Rhinitis Quality of Life Questionnaire (RQLQ), the standard tool of measurement, the ACT I study showed that Astelin offered statistically significant improvements (P = 0.049) in quality of life benefits compared with Zyrtec. "This study once again confirms the efficacy of Astelin and reaffirms the benefit of a topically administered antihistamine," said Paul...

The Food and Drug Administration said Friday it sent letters ...

...week notifying Bayer Pharmaceuticals Corp. and Pfizer Inc. that a television commercial for Levitra and three direct-mail advertisements for Zyrtec made unsubstantiated claims of superiority over competing products. In Levitra's case, Bayer also failed to disclose FDA warnings and product information, the letter said. It was the fourth such warning for Pfizer about Zyrtec. The commercial for Levitra, an erectile dysfunction drug, features a woman praising the drug, and, according to the FDA, implying ...

...currently reviewing all our Levitra promotional material to address the issues raised by the agency," he added. The ads for Zyrtec compare two people; one obviously sick, sneezing or wiping her nose, and another who looks perfectly healthy. The captions of the ads imply that the healthy and alert-looking person has taken Zyrtec; the sickly and unhappy one has taken a different medication. The FDA said it "is not aware of substantial evidence or substantial clinical experience demonstrating that Zyrtec is clinically superior" to any other available over-the-counter or prescription allergy medicine. An attempt to reach Pfizer by...
